Teaches At Ben Milam

Teacher Wins Scholarship

By Robert Mann

Mrs. Virginia Schuhsler, Ben Milam third grade teacher, has been selected by Abilene Christian College to attend school there on a scholarship basis for six weeks this summer.

Mrs. Schuhsler will be one of a hundred teachers and college students awarded scholarships as a part of an American Studies Program, instituted by the college in 1957.

The objective of the summer course is to familiarize teachers with the importance of stressing Americanism and our American Heritage to their classroom students.

All the scholars will receive free room, board, tuition, books and fees will be paid. The school will be conducted in two six week sessions, 50 students each semester. Mrs. Schuhsler will atttend the first semester from June 6 to July 14.

The scholarships are supported by the Coe Family Foundation of New York City, in cooperation with the Texas Educational Association of Ft. Worth.

Daughter of the late Cameron mayor, Charles C. Smith, Mrs. Schuhsler is a University of Houston graduate where she majored in education. Prior to entering the university she attended Sam Houston State Teacher's College for two years. Later she attended a summer workshop at the University of Texas and has taken extension courses from Baylor University.

MISS VIRGINIA SCHUHSLER . . . Abilene Scholarship

Her Bachelor of Science degree consists of an education and teaching major, an English minor, and extra courses in speech and fine arts. In applying for the scholarship she sent her entire college manuscript, personal information, and a picture to the college. She was required to write a paper of two hundred words on why she wanted to take the course and how she thought it would benefit her as a teacher.

She learned of the scholarship through, "The Texas Outlook", a teacher's magazine, published by the Texas State Teachers Association.

In talking with Mrs. Schuhsler she said, "I am grateful for receiving the scholarship and I think I will be a better and more appreciative citizen after completing the course. Many people make the mistakes of critizing and taking our way of government for granted. This course is designed to give students and someday citizens a closer understanding of our American Heritage.'.

She is planning to take a Master of American Literature course and make a study of American Masterpieces of American Literature. Other courses offered are the American Economic System, History of American Education, American Political Biographies, and Christianity and Communism.

Mrs. Schuhsler is a Yoe High graduate and has taught the third grade in the Cameron Public School system since 1954. She taught a year in East Bernard in 1953 and was employed by the Texas Railroad Commission in Houston following her graduation from college.

380 Appealing AMS-Projected Acreage Figures

Hundreds of Milam County farmers this week have been crowding the Cameron Agriculture Stabilization & Conservation office during sign - up for the new feed grain program.

Amid the bustle, a controversy has developed over the number of acres on record at the Milam ASC office and totals projected from a sampling taken by another government agency, Agricultural Marketing Service, Washington, according to Alva Sanders, Milam ASC manager.

By Tuesday 380 farmers had filed for appeals on the acreage figures established by AMS samplings while about 400 contracts had been completed.

Sanders estimated that about $250,000 had been paid out in advance payments for grain acreage in the program.

Sanders said there was apparent wide - spread interest in the new feed grain bill program -- which allows direct payments for at least 20 percent of the voluntary cooperator's 1959 - 60 grain sorghum or corn crop. The program is just for 1961.

But a difference of figures developed when the AMS postal sampling of Milam grain acreage was projected to be: Grain sorghum, 38,683 acres (a 5 per cent increase over an earlier estimate) compared to Milam ASC figures of 56,976 acres; corn, AMS projected estimates of 33,385 acres compared to Milam ASC figures of 46,559 acres.

Sanders said the deadline date for appealing acreage and yields is Tuesday, May 9. Applications may be filled out for review by the County ASC committee no later than that date, he said.

In hearing appeals, Sanders said the ASC board will consider adequate records such as:

For Yield -- loan records, weight receipts or cancelled checks or receipts on sales.

For Acreage or Productivity -- receipts or cancelled checks on grain seed, receipts or cancelled checks on costs of combining or pulling acreages, or certification by a neighbor or similar substantiation.

Sanders estimated that 1,000 - 1,200 contracts will be completed out of about 1,700 grain farms in Milam County. He expected that about 600 appeals will be made by the deadline date.

With FML

I happened to be looking up at the stars one clear night earlier this week and saw a satellite making its lonely way across the sky.

With all the talk of the U. S. Astronaut, due to go on his downrange ride tomorrow, it was particularly impressive to see the satellite.

At first glance, it appeared to be a star, much brighter than distant cousins. When it passed in front of a real star (from our view), it proved to be a moving missile.

Ten years ago, it would have been called a "flying saucer."

It makes one wonder what he will be seeing in the night skys 10 years from now.

If flying objects are clear of the earth's atmosphere, they reflect the sun's rays, like the moon, at night. It might be like a giant goldfish bowl with all manner of moving reflections appearing in the sky.

With telescope, very powerful of couse, we might someday look up and exclaim: "Look, there's Uncle Willie. I haven't seen him in a light year (186,000 miles per second x 60 second x 60 minutes x 24 hours x 365 days). He looks a bit older.'.

APROPOS — A reporter from a big city newspaper stopped to visit a friend who ran a country weekly.

He asked his friend: "How can you keep up your circulation in a town where everyone already knows what everyone else is doing."

The editor grinned: "They know what everyone is doing, all right, but they read the paper to see who's been caught at it."

Planning Session Tonight For WW

About 75 Western Week workers from Cameron Saddle Club and Cameron Chamber of Commerce are expected at an organizational meeting 6 p. m. Thursday (May 4) at Milam District Courtroom.

Chamber Manager Jack DuBois said the meeting is being called to review the 1960 Western Week, its activities and consider modifications or additions to the foremat this summer.

The annual Cameron Horse Show, spark that set the Western Week in motion two years ago, is set for July 8 and July 15 showings, which will sandwich the week of Western action here.

Chairman of the Western Week program will be Milton Schiller, former president of the Cameron Chamber and president of the Cameron School Board.

DuBois said that everyone interested in the Western Week program is invited to attend the planning meeting tonight.

The Saddle Club arena in Wilson - Ledbeter Park has been releveled and widened and officials have said that additional bleachers will be installed for crowds this summer. Last year a Cen-Tex record of about 3,500 attended the Friday night showing.

And the parade last year drew an estimated 12,500 spectators.

Planning will include the possibility of additional attractions for the Western Week program to boost interest in the Cameron Horse Show events, DeBois said.

Ideas for heightening mid - week interest on a scheduled basis will be considered, he noted.

Western Week began in 1959 to boost Milam interest in Cameron's Saddle Club Horse Show, rated one of Texas' finest. Proclamations from the Governor usually set the July program in motion. The first Western Week caught the imagination of thousands of Countians and in two years the event has grown beyond original expectatioes, DeBois said.

Yoe Senior Class To Present Play

The Senior Class of Yoe High will present their annual play Tuesday. The play, "Curtain Going Up", is actually a play within a play.

RoyceGlaserWins Poultry Show

Royce Glaser and Dennis Jistel, both of Rt. 1, Cameron, Saturday won grand champion and reserve grand champion honors respectively in the Milam Junior Broiler Show.

Presentation of top awards to these top prize winners and 25 other winners was made at First Methodist Fellowship Hall by Bill Burns, chairman of the poultry committee and master of ceremonies for the banquet.

Johnnie Watkins, farm editor of KWTX-TV, Waco, challenged county farmers and businessmen to increase production of every commodity in the Milam agriculture field. He read a list of statistics from the 1960 farm census of various crops grown and livestock produced.

He said that increase in Milam agricultural productivity would match any additional flow of money from industry.

He cited the Milam Poultry Show as the finest in the 31-county area in which he circulates in his capacity as a TV farm editor.

Ed Parnell, Texas A & M poultry expert and judge for the show, congratulated the 85 Milam growers and business sponsors for making the eighth annual broiler contest the best in history and the best in Texas. Parnell outlined methods of judging and points of development in county broilers.

About 220 growers, sponsors and guests attended the banquet. A steady flow of Countians visited the contest center at the Lamkin Bldg., in downtown Cameron during the day.

Sponsors from Cameron, Buckholts, Thorndale and Rockdale attended the banquet.

Winners were:

James Richard Clements, 66, of Houston, Saturday entered a plea of guilty in Milam District Court to a burglery charge and drew a five - year penitentiary sentence.

Clements was indicted by a Milam District grand jury April 25 on a charge of burglarizing Cameron Machine Shop of about $500 worth of tools.

District Judge W. C. Wallace heard Clements' plea of guilty to the burglary charge and sentenced him to five years in the state penitentiary.

Clements was arrested at his Houston home April 3 on suspicion of taking the tools from the Cameron plant. Police Chief Elvin Hoskins and Deputy Sheriff Douglas Barron picked Clements up in Houston.

Clements had previous convictions of burglary and had served terms in Leavenworth and Huntsville, officials said.

The Cameron Machine Shop was entered sometime over the weekend of April 2. Clements was seen parked in his car early one morning and was given a ticket for having no driver's license. Following a report of the burglary, Cameron police officials went to Houston to make the arrest.

Fire Chief A. J. Giesbers and Fire Truck Driver Adolph Zatopek of Temple met with the Cameron Fire Department Monday night to discuss fire fighting problems.

Chief Giesbers told about the recent fire in Temple and explained the local fire departments action.

Council Approves Fire Truck Plan

The City Council Tuesday voted to draw up specifications for bidders on a new fire truck and install light poles for the Negro Park.

Officials said the new truck will be delivered by the winning bidder by fall after the new fiscal year, October 1. The City has set aside $9,000 for the new pumper - type truck and will add a budgeted $3,000 to meet the anticipated cost.

Six 55 - foot poles will be erected and wired for lighting at Cameron's Negro Park, officials said. Funds for the project have been budgeted in the current budget.

And the Council voted to authorize assessment of some property along E. 11th St. for completion of paving or paving curbing.

The northwest sewer extension moved nearer completion as 11 or 12 households inside the city limits have signed contracts with the city in the planned $8,000 extension program in Northwest Cameron.

And officials said that intersections along US 77 (E. Fourth St.) were under the maintenance supervision of the State Highway Dept. which, they said, had announced plans to install concrete aprons when time and materials were available.

In other action, the Council approved unanimously a resolution commending Richard Moseley, councilman recently re - elected for his third term, active civic and church worker, who is going to Lubbock May 1. He will become assistant manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce.

15 - Year Revolution

Drug Progress Cited

The marked progress of pharmaceuticals in the past 15 years was the subject of a talk given Wednesday by John Anderson, representative of Lederle Laboratories, before Cameron Rotarians.

Introduced by program chairman Guss Elley, Anderson described advances of anti - biotic medicines from the discovery of penicillin in 1928 to the advert of oreomycin in recent years.

Anderson said that the drugs of today have reduced the number of mentally disturbed (tranquilizers), the number of orphans from 800,000 to 80,000 in the past 25 years (safer childbirth) and death and high medical costs due to pneumonia (antibiotics).

He pointed out that the drug industry spent $194 millions during the past year on research. Yet, he added, the average cost of a prescription ($3) has only gone up 21 percent, while the cost of living has gone up 27 percent in 12 years.

In citing the advances of drugs, Anderson noted that pneumonia once was fatal to one of three persons afflicted and the average treatment cost was about $1,000. But with antibiotics, the death rate is now negligible, and the cost of treatment averages around $100.

"Eighty - five percent of today's drugs were unknown 15 years ago" he emphasized. "And 75 percent of the drugs in this country came from other parts of the world."

The Lederle Company has spent $6 million alone in cancer research without profit and will spend more, Anderson said.

He emphasized that since the days of Egypt, man has extended his life from the average age of 12 to the present day age average of 70. By the time of the Greek and Roman cultures, the average was 22. At the time of the Colonial New England colonies, it was 35, Anderson added.

And he cited an example of how the advent of sulfa drugs wiped out his company's investment of millions of dollars when 33 different serums for treatment of pneumonia were made obsolete.

I Give You Texas

By Boyce House

When I was a young reporter in Memphis, Tennessee, Ralph Millett started an afternoon newspaper there -- the Penny Bee. That's right, it sold for a cent a copy. His editor was going to resign an d so the publisher of the struggling paper was looking for a successor.

He offered the job to me. I said, "I don't know whether I could edit a newspaper." He replied, "You have been highly recomm ended."

"By whom?"

"Mr. Mooney,'. (C. P. J. Mooney was the editor of the Commercial Appeal, the paper on which I was working.)

Millett chuckled, "Of course, he didn't know that he was recommending an editor to me. We were just conversing and he called you 'the most promising young newspaperman in the South.' ".

That was truly praise, coming from the greatest Southern editor of his day.

That was long ago and I am no longer young -- but I am still promising.

Little stories about famous members of the United States Senate of long ago:

Senator William B. Bate of Tennessee served in two wars. He was a veteran of the Civil War, with the rank of major general but the war of his youth -- with Mexico - was the one which was most vivid in his memory.

Bate was not an orator and seldom spoke but one day a bill to increase the pension of those who had served in the Mexican war was being considered and he thrilled the Senate with an address in which he described scaling Chapultepec and other experiences in that conflict. It was remarkable to hear a Senator tell of battles in which he had taken part almost 60 years before.

Senator "Pitchfork" Tillman of South Carolina in a speech in the Senate gave a picturesque description of a colletague, William (Gum Shoe Bill) Stone of Missouri: "He can dance the Highland fling on top of a 10-rail fence and never touch the ground, but his greatest feat is walking on eggs without breaking the shells."

A new Senator wanted to be named to the judiciary committee. The majority leader, a rock-ribbed conservative, Senator Nelson Aldrich, of Rhode Island, approved, saying "He's all right: I have had him looked up; he is the attorney for seven different corporations." And so the Senator was appointed.

What Aldrich did not know, however, was that when the Senator had been elected, he retired from all corporation law practice!

He was William E. Borah of Idaho, who became a leader of the progressives in the Senate.

Brenham Maifest To Be Held May 12-13

BRENHAM — Two of the largest parades in the long history of the Brenham Maifest are shaping up for the 1961 festival which is set for May 12- 13.

The 71st edition of the Maifest will feature parades with 33 decorated floats plus 20 bands and drill teams. Both the number of floats and bands exceed the total of last year, according to Maifest chairman Milton Routt.

Kicking off the Maytime festival, in which hundreds of youngsters annually participate, will be the junior court parade that Friday at 10:30 a. m. The senior court will have its parade Saturday at the same time.

Reigning as monarchs of the first day's festivities will be the junior queen and king. Sue Tomachefsky and Skipper Schroeder.

The junior coronation will take place Friday night beginning at 8 p. m. at Fireman's Park Stadium

A CHALLENGE

We are challenged by a twilight world of neither peace nor war but constant tension. To survive we must prove that we deserve to survive. We must prove it as individuals. What you think, what you do, how much you care about democracy—these decide. Peace is not a blessing. It is a battle. Peace must be won. You can win it by making our national goals your personal goals. Plan to live your freedoms by reading "Goals for Americans," the new Report of the President's Commission on National Goals. It shows you what must be done, and how much you can do. You alone must decide the nation's future—and your own. For free digest, write "GOALS," Box 1776, New York 17, New York.

County Agents Notes....

Aphids Invade Seedling Cotton

By J. D. Moore
Milam County Agent

An unusual build - up of plant lice occured during April due to favorable conditions for their development. This build - up occured in the lush growth of vegetation in the pastures. Pasture plants started maturing during the last week of April, resulting in unfavorable conditions for plant lice development. The tender tips of young plants are more ideal food for plant lice.

Due to the toughness of the maturing host lants, plant lice invaded seedling cotton in the Splawn and Maysfield communities. Farmers in these communities started their poisoning machines in cotton to control the aphid infestation.

TREATMENT — Methyl Parathion at the rate of 1 to 1½ pints per acre is recommended. Some of the farmers were using a residual mixture for thrip control.

For flowers and shrubs, we recommend Malathion at the rate of one table spoon per gallon of water, used as a spray to control plant lice.

It must be remembered that heavy infestations of plantlice may occur due to their unusual life habits. The first generation of aphids in the spring are all females. This new generation of aphids give birth to their young and this method of parenthood continues throughout the spring and summer months. The last generation in the fall are made up of males and females. Mating occurs and eggs are produced. These eggs become dormant throughout the winter months.

WHEN TO SPRAY PECANS FOR THE CASEBEARER

Predicting the occurence of insect infestation is erratic due to the influence of weather conditions. The pecan nut casebearer passes the winter as a partially grown larvae in a tiny silken cocoon called a hibernaculum, which is usually attached to a bud.

In the spring, the larvae feed for a short time in the buds. This has already occured in the Little River bottom. Adult moths usually occur in late April and early May. These months are about one-third inch in length. The wings are gray and the forewings have a ridge of dark scales across them about one - third the distance from the base. The moths fly at night and spent the day in concealment.

These moths should occur about the first part foMay and young worms usually occur about May 10. Spraying should be done when these small worms appear. A good rule - for - thumb practice is to Spray the trees about the time the tips of the small pecans turn a brown color.

Use, Malathion, DDT, Toxaphene or Dieldrin as a spray when the tiny worms appear.

Judging Begins To Find Texas' Top Rural Communities

COLLEGE STATION — During the next six weeks, judging teams will score 241 communities in their search to find Texas' most progressive rural community. Progress made during the past year will be of prime importance in the fiscal determination, said Reagan Brown, rural sociologist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Brown added that such broad areas of improvement as increasing and managing farm income, improving health conditions, improving the farm and home, increasing social opportunities and participation in all phases of community life will be considered by the judging teams.

The sociologist said the past year had been the most successful in the 14 year history of the Extension Service conducted program. Awards on the district and state basis are currently being provided by 10 electric utility companies which operate in Texas, Brown added.

Community judging is now underway and will continue until the participating communities have presented their improved neighborhoods to the judges and the public. Brown said the public has a special invitation to participate in at least one of the judging tours. He put it this way -- "You will see community progress at its best. You will share the thrills of seeing a community made better by neighbors who have worked, played and prayed together to accomplish their goals. It's democracy at work in its best form."

At the conclusion of the judging period, the top three communities in Texas will be named. They will come from the first place district winner and Brown said would be most typical of community progress for better homes, on better farms and in better communities.

Rural Aid Planned By TP&L

A rural development division has been organized within Texas Power & Light Company to help increase farm income in the area served by the Company, W. W. Lynch, president of Texas Power & Light Company reported.

The division will work closely with agricultural committees of chambers of commerce, county extension agents and other groups which include business and agricultural leaders in the 52-county TP&L service area.

Long range planning calls for the new division to assist rural communities and to continue to help farm communities to organize their efforts toward a program that will improve local living conditions and add to community income, Lynch said.

George McKinney, formerly T P&L-s Central Division supervisor of farm service, has been named a rural development specialist in the new division and he will help organize programs on soil fertility, beef cattle improvement and dairy improvement. The new division will be a part of TP&L's agricultural development department headed by Homer Gibbs.

OKLAHOMA STORY — Ann Baxter (left), Maria Schell and Glenn Ford talk over a business transaction in a scene from "Cimarron," M-G-M's film version of the Edna Ferber novel. It begins a four-day showing Sunday at Cameron's Milam Theatre. "Cimarron" tells the story of the great land rush of 1889 and the opening of Oklahoma Territory. Ford plays an early day newspaper editor whose early editions helped mold the Oklahoma Territory.

Cimarron Begins Run Here Sunday

One of the most violent, rousing and exciting eras of American pioneer history, that following the opening of the Oklahoma Territory and the great land rush of 1889, is depicted on a sprawling and colorful canvas in "Cimarron," Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer film version of Edna Ferber's enduring novel.

It begins a four - day showing Sunday at Milam Theatre.

Starring are Glenn Ford, Marie Schell, Ann Baxter, Arthur O'Connell, Russ Tamblyn, Mercedes McCambridge, Vic Morrow, Robert Keith and Charles McGraw, with hundreds of supporting players appearing in a cast of 368 speaking roles.

Its dynamic story covers a period of four decades in which a lawless pioneer settlement of tents and shacks is shown developing into the thriving city of Osage. Most of the picture was filmed on location in Arizona, in Cinema Scope and color, entailing MGM's biggest location movement within the United States in the studio's history. Creating the spectacular scenes which fill the screen required ten cameras, a caravan of 50 boxcars and 35 trucks, 700 horses, 500 pioneer wagons, 3,000 costumes.

The land rush sequence with the hundreds of wagons jammed at the starting line and, at a signal of rifle fire, racing across the open prairie, is one of the most thrilling episodes ever photographed for a motion picture.

But the size and scope of "Cimarron" are never permitted to weigh down its rousing story of the men and women who opened up new frontiers of the West. There were gunfighters, roustabouts, bigots, thieves and killers and the girls who trailed them for what they could get. But there were also men and women whose courage and adventurous spirit spawned a great new country.

Of these were Yancey Cravat and his young bride, Sabra (Glenn Fod and Maria Schell), whose sweeping love story, from the beginning of the land rush through the turbulent decades of Osage the bold era in which they played such vital pioneer roles.

Sabra remains steadfast in her deveotion to the man she loves. She closes her eyes to Yancey's friendship for the flambayant Dixie (Ann Baxter), who has trickled him out of his land claim. She is at his side in his fight for the cause of the desprised Indians even when he has to resort to shooting. She is dismayed when he turns down the reward for saving hostage children from being killed when their schoolhouse is taken over by a trio of juvenile bank rubbers led by the Cherokee Kid (Russ Tamblyn). But she comes to understand why Yancey acts as he does, even when he turns down the governorship of the Oklahoma Territory.

Through the years, Sabra builds up the small newspaper they have started, and whenever Yancey leaves her for new adventures, she takes him back. And at the end when war breaks out in Europe, Yancey enlists with the Canadian Army and again proves himself a fearless adventurer who cannot stay out of a fight.

"Cimmarron" was directed by Anthony Mann from a screen play by Arnold Schulman and was produced by Edmund Grainger.

Outdoors In Texas

By Vern Sanford

A speedy retriever isn't always the fastest way to fill a stringer.

In fact, the fellow who whips out the lure and then retrieves it at slightly less than supersonic speed is usually a guy who winds up getting most of his fish at the fish market.

Speed of retrieve is very important in fishing artificial lures.

All lures can't be worked at the same speed or in the same manner. There is a certain retrieve speed for each lure. Some will work best at a dead slow speed. Others must be worked moderately fast. Still others, particularly those used in off-shore trolling in salt water, are designed to operate best at a rather fast speed.

I've seen fishermen buy artificial lures, take them out of the packages and start right in using them, without ever noting the instructions. After a couple dozen casts and no strikes, they will discard them into the tackle box in favor of something else.

Never once did they even attempt to read the directions that came with the lure. Small wonder they failed to raise any fish. You must use a lure properly.

Reputable artificial bait companies spend a lot of time and money testing each make of lure before it is released for public consumption. Follow the directions that come with your lure and you'll enjoy better fishing.

Fishing with a sinking lure presents something of a problem. Good sinking lures are designed to run at a constant depth. For example, if you let your lure sink five feet and then start the retrieve, the lure will maintain that five - foot depth almost all the way to the boat.

How Deep To Fish

Suppose you're fishing in water 20 feet deep and you want to determine the depth at which the fish are working. Try some experimenting.

Start off by working the lure near the surface. If you get no results, then determine how fast the lure sinks in the water.

To do this, measure out five feet of line -- then drop the lure into the water. Count the number of seconds it takes for the lure to reach the five - foot depth.

Unless a lure is unusually heavy it will sink at a rate of about a foot a second.

Start counting as soon as it hits the water. Work the lure at different depths. Give each depth a good try before going to a new level.

Then, when you get a strike, remember the count that you used. Cast out and use the same count again.

You'll find yourself doing a lot of counting, but you'll also find yourself catching a lot of fish.

How long does it take to fish out a cast?

That depends on the type of lure used.

I've watched many an expert top - water - lure fishermen in action. I've seen them take as long as five minutes to fish out a cast. It's interesting to note that these fellows fish the lure all the way to the boat. Often I've seen them get a strike just 10 or 12 feet from the boat. Somtimes closer.

A cast is fished out much faster with a sinking lure fished at a constant depth.

There are times when a sinking lure can be worked dead slow and it will catch fish. It's called bottom - bumping.

The lure is tossed out and allowed to sink to the bottom. Then the angler twitches the rod tip and takes a few turns on the reel handle. This makes the lure hop off the bottom and swim a few feet before it sinks back to the bottom .

Fish Plastic Worms Slowly

Slowest of all lures are the leadhead plastic worms and eels.

When you use these, you really fish slow. First you let the lure sink to the bottom. Then you wait 10 to 15 seconds, twitch the rod tip and move the lure just a foot or so. After another 10 or 15 seconds, you twitch the rod and move the lure again.

On a long cast, it might take as much as 10 minutes to work the lure all the way back to the boat. This is time - taking, but it's a deadly method of fishing for black bass. Often it will produce a strike when nothing else will.

Important thing about lure fishing is to remember everything you did on a retrieve that produced a fish. Then just repeat the action. One thing for sure -- you can't daydream when you're lure fishing and expect to score any great amount of success.

Only A Few Lures Needed

Another thing about lures. You don"t need a tackle box full of lures to catch fish. For proof of this, go out with some experienced guides. Note the contents of their tackle boxes.

Usually they'll have a wide assortment of hardware. But notice how few of these lures they actually use. They stick with a few old standbys and they catch fish.

That big assortment of hardware in the guide-s box is just part of his business. His client might be one who believes in switching lures every few minutes.

Tips To Improve Outdoor Furniture For Summertime

By Frances H. Johnson
Milam Home Demonstration Agent

With warm weather already starting, this is a good time to get outdoor furniture in conditions for summer use.

If you have nonannodized aluminum outdoor furniture that has started to pit, rub with 2-0 steeel wool and oil the hinges carefully; then rub on a coat of an exterior clear penetrating tung oil sealer.

Freshen iron furniture by removing soil with warm soapy water, a brush and cloth. Rinse with warm water and dry. Remove rust with 2-0 steel wool and apply a metal paint or an exterior sealer.

To repair loose bindings on rattan furniture, soak them in warm water, rewind carefully and tack. Coat with clear varnish or a clear penetrating tung oil sealer.

Redwood furniture can also be finished with a tung oil sealer. The kind designed for outddoor furniture will dry in the pressence of moisture.

Replacement of sail cloth and canvas covers for director chairs and butterfly chairs can be found ready - made, or you can make them youself ifyou are fairly skilled at sewing jobs. Plastic backed vinyls, webbings and easily washable fabrics are availailable by the yeard for use on different kinds of outdoor furniture.

Government And Press Freedom . . .

Freedom of the press, always a subject of interest to newspapers, came up for some headlines of its own in a speech for daily editors and publishers in New York.

President Kennedy was the speaker. "A clear and present danger" (subversive communism) was the impetus for the President's appeal for a kind of selfcensorship in the nation's press.

The President harked to the ominous threat of the communist police state as it exists in Russia and Red China. The recent debacle on the beaches of Cuba, ill conceived by a rebel Cuban government and the U. S. 's Central Intelligence Agency was headlined in the press to the consternation of the country and the Administration.

His speech hammered out the serious responsibility of a free press reporting such events, often handing a propaganda advantage to police state communism. The Soviet press, echoed by a world press of varying degrees of mobility, prints only what the Kremlin wishes. And what is politically advantageous is the news in Pravda, Circulation: 5:5 million, the official Soviet newspaper.

Substance of Mr. Kennedy's appeal was this: "Every newspaper now asks itself, with respect to every story: 'Is it news?' All I suggest is that you add the question: 'Is it in the national interest?' "

* * * *

Knowing the imminent dangers of the day, he makes a point. Only last week, a large Texas daily newspaper published a Washington story, citing an item on a prospective changeup in CIA leadership with the report labeld "an unverified source."

Such reporting is the target of the President's remarks. Constant, competitive reporting of real news, sidelights, highlights and sometime rumors is the thing in key news centers such as Washington.

Open competition for news--assured in the First Amendment--is fine. Groping for headlines is not.

An element of finesse is apparently what the President seeks. Somehow the press should be free to report and criticize with the insight of knowing what not to print. That is tedious business.

The CIA, soon to be opened to public view in a Senate investigation, has functioned above any redress of government or free press. Top level secrecy and immunity probably weakened its ability to make the proper Cuban recommendation. And the President, bravely accepting responsibility, asks the press to sort out the errors of massive government machinery.

* * * *

We would say: Give the American press additional briefing, commonly granted wartime correspondents, in this Cold War age. Then the press will know how to sift out national disadvantage without undue distortion of news. But if the Defense Department, State Department and agencies such as CIA cannot be responsible to skilled news interpreters and reporters, how can the press be responsible to the government which created its freedom and to the peoples whose liberties it protects?

Is this a first step toward an official government censorship? We hope not! We rather believe that a solid public understanding of communist intrigue will result. And perhaps such mobilization of public opinion, surely overdue, will not sustain vacillation and compromise which communism dotes on today.

Perhaps the abortive Cuban invasion is the beginning of American enlightenment, in and out of Washington. Without mongering for war, which panics even the most brave and daring, this nation and Western World must sustain the attitude of a Monroe Doctrine different from that of the 1830's. It is an individual doctrine that accepts responsibility for a conviction. It is a doctrine that excludes intrigue and subversion--communist or otherwise.

This is what the President is asking of a free press. It is a grand challenge that the press should gladly accept . . . in the knowledge that government and the people can live up to their demands.

Capital Engaged In Legal Game

By Vern Sanford

AUSTIN — Capitol hands are engaged in a legal and dead-serious type of "numbers game."

Object is to figure out how much money certain tax bills will bring in. Also what the legislature needs to round up in order to meet the state's obligations. Then, find out how much additional cash is necessary to foot all bills. Any number of persons can play this game -- and a good many are. Looks like all Texans will be affected.

Gov. Price Daniel, who takes a dim view of the House-passed 2 per cent sales tax, said it still would leave the state $50,000,000 short of needed revenue. Rep. Charles Wilson of Trinity, sponsor of the sales tax, offered it as a means of raising $127,000,000 a year.

Texas Research League, which has made a continuing study of state finances, estimated Wilson's bill would raise $265,000,000 in the next two years, with $22,000,000 more coming in late because of a two - months collection lag. This would take care of the general appropriations bill as passed by the Senate, says the League, leaving some $106,000,000 to pay for teacher raises and medical care for persons on state welfare rolls.

Wilson has also put forward another tax bill that would repeal the corporation franchise tax and substitute a 4½ per cent corporation income tax for a net gain of $50,000,000 a year in state revenue.

Governor Daniel has proposed a new eight - point compromise plan designed to add $73,316,000 to the general revenue fund over a two - year period.

His plan calls for (1) passage of the twice - defeated escheat bill, (2) doubling tuituion at state colleges, (3) shifting the $15,000,000 farm - to - market road spending from the general fund, (4) requiring county school superintendent expenses to be paid from local funds, (5) collecting $3,000,000 from families able to pay for care of relatives in state hospitals and schools, (6) diverting one per cent ($12,000,000) a year from the permanent school fund for current expenses and (7) revising or shifting several other school fund allocations.

HOUSE PASSES BUDGET BILL

House passed a general appropriations bill calling for the spending of $2,520,000,000 during the next two years.

House bill is about $20,000,000 higher than the appropriations bill passed by the Senate in late March. It is about $130,000,000 more than is provided for present two - year period.

One of the biggest increases would be for education, which would be boosted by $36,000,000 a year under the House bill.

Other provisions by the House would allow: $15 per month raises for state employees making less than $200 a month; 40-hour work week for employees of state hospitals and special schools; raises for State Liquor Control Board inspectors.

"UNIVERSITY" BATTLES

"University" has become a "fighting word" in the Senate, one that held up regular business for almost two weeks. ....

A determined group of Senators has opposed creating any more state - supported universities on grounds it will put Texas in the position of the "old woman who lived in the shoe."

Nevertheless, Sen Tom Creighton of Mineral Wells obtained final passage of a bill that would change the name of North Texas State College to North Texas State University. Opponents scoffed at the prospec t of having two universities in Denton (pop. 27,000). Other is Texas Women's University (formerly Texas State College for Women).

Sen. Robert Baker of Houston had more difficulty with his bill that would admit the University of Houston to the state college system. Senators Hubert Hudson, Wardlow Lane, Charles Herring and W. T. Moore teamed up to "talk the bill to death."

CAR TAX END SOUGHT

City and County property taxes on automobiles and trucks would be abiolshed under a proposed constitutional amendment passed 102 - t -3 5 by the House.

School district property taxes on vehicles would be retained.

Auto property taxes have been a source of considerable dissatisfaction since some cities and counties collect them and others don't bother. Rep. Murray Watson of Mart, sponsor of the plan, said he would urge that the Legislature also adopt a law requiring car owners to show a receipt for payment of school taxes as a requirement for getting license plates. Watson's proposed amendment also would authorize the Legislature to increase vehicle registration fees by one - third to create a fund for improving county roads and city streets.

If passed by both houses of the Legislature, the amendment would have to be voted on by the people.

LITTLE RIVER PHILOSOPHER

Philosopher Says Nobody Will Ever Accuse Farmers With The Crime Of Price - Fixing

Dear editar:

Every once in a while somebody asks me why I keep on farming if it's as hard as I let on and the chances of breaking even are as slim as I claim, but that's because they don-t understand all of the advantages.

It's true farming out in the open under the uncertainties of the weather is a hazardous undertaking, about like trying to run a drygoods store without a roof or a bank without a vault, and it's true that insects are as smart as men and while man is staying up all night in a laboratory developing an insecticide that's bound to work, it turns out the insects stayed up the nibht before developing an immunity to it. At I've found out long ago, every time man comes out with a new insecticide the insects come out with a new insect.

Moreover, a lot of people distrust a farmer. If he gets ahead, he's responsible for the high cost of living, if he fails, he's incompetent.

I could go on, but by this time you're probably wondering, what are the advantages of farming?

Well, I won't have room this week to list all the advantages, not to mention time to think them up, or the imagination to manufacture them, but there is one advantage that occurred to me the other day and I've been basking in it ever since.

It's this: the farmers will never be filed on by the United States government for price-fixing.

You're not going to catch us inviting the wrath of Attorney General Bobby Kennedy by getting together and deciding how much we ought to charge for what we produce. We've out-smarted all the lawyers in the government, and in all the history of agriculture since man first found out if you put a seed in the ground it'd sprout to the present day when we can produce more than the country can handle, no farmer has ever been guilty of deciding what the price of what he has produced should be. We haul it to town and ask somebody, Lots of times we don't get near enough, but we sure stay out of court.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Jimmy Nigliazzo went the route for Hearne, allowing 4 hits, fann- ing 7 and walking 3.

Pacing the Hearne batters was Trentacost with a fourth inning homer; Dotson went 3 for 4, and Neff slammed out a doubles and 2 singles for three trips.

Ernie Bayer started for Cameron and was relieved in the 6th by Charles Staley. Staley hurled two innings of one-hit ball and set down 2 on strikes.

Yoemen Lose To Rockdale, A&M

Rockdale's star pitching ace, Da- niel Yezak, gave his all last week and it resulted in a no-hitter tossed against the Yoe. Final tally was 14-3 in favor of the Tigers.

Last Friday night the Yoemen lost to A & M Consolidated, 9-5 despite two late inning rallies that left men stranded on bases.

Donnie Laurence backed up Ye- zak's pitching performance with a first inning grand - slam homer. The Tigers came across with three more runs in the second frame, two in the third and four in the sixth.

Cameron's three points were cha- lked up on errors and walks. Cat- cher Eugene Taylor worked Ye- zak for a walk in the fourth and scored on an infield error, two out later. Carroll Fikes and Ernie Ba- yer scored in the sixth when Ye zak lost his control and issued a bases - loaded welk. Losing Cam- eron hurler was Bayer.

Friday night's action was witnes- sed by a full house of Yoemen fans in their third district tilt.

Consolidated got started on an early lead in the bottom of the second when Condy Pugh came home on a fielder's choice.

Charles Staley bingled a single as the first batter for Cameron in the third, Pat Dillon reached first on an interference charge, and Staley scored on a fielder's choice that also sent Chris Gay safely to first on an infield hit. Dillon tallied on a single by Bayer and Gay and Bayer came home on a double by sophomore slug- ger, Eugene Taylor.

Consolidated came back with two tallies in the bottom half of the third, cutting the Yoemen lead down to a single point. Another A & M run in the fifth tied the game at four all.

Cameron brought in a run in the 7th when Gay doubled and Bayer brought him around with another two - bagger. Consolidated scored four times in the last two innings to take the victory home.

VIEW ON SPORTS

— WITH ROBERT MANN —

Cameron's Little League baseball program is expected to reach it's highes, point, membership - wise this summer since the establish- ment ot the program several years ago.

The summer recreation program will expand it's Little and Minor League program to six teams per league, instead of the originally planned five. Babe Ruth League baseball, for boys aged 13-15, will sport two Cameron squads and meet out - of - town competition.

Jim Edwards, league official, has sent out a call for two more managers one is needed for a Minor League team and another Little League team.

So far, there are over two hundred and fifty boys in the two leagues. Definite teams will be or- ganized Thursday night.

Coach Billy Bates is back at his head coaching position after a two - week bout with t h e mumps. Planning to take it easy for awhile, Jack Larimore will re- main at the head of the Yoemen baseballers through their last two games.

The State Track Meet at Austin is scheduled for Friday and Sat- urday of this week. Apparently Bates and his staff plan to take in the event.

VOS

Night baseball is the talk of the town. The YHS baseballers have made full use of the one year old Cameron Field the past two weeks, playing all of their home games, two of them under the lights.

The bleachers have almost re- ached the point of overflowing and it looks like more seating capac- ity is going to be needed this sum- mer to house the cities's sports enthusiasts.

Yoemen Face Final Baseball Games

The Cameron Yoemen hit the road this week for their final two baseball tilts of the season with Rockdale and A & M Consolidated.

Jack Larimore will continue at the reins of the Yoe baseballers for the remainder of the season although Billy Bates is back in action after a case of the mumps.

Pat Dillon, hot fielding short- stop is at the top of the Yoemen batting list with a .357 average. He has five bingles in district competition for 14 attempts.

Charles Staley, who made his debut as a pitcher last Monday night is hitting the ball at a .286 clip and Eugene Taylor is .222 for 9 trips to the plate. Eugene Sch- attle is 1 for 4 for a .250 average.

Chris Gay, Carroll Fikes, Ern- est Bayer and company are hit- ting far below par. All are under .200. The Yoemen are still seeking their first win.

How to Keep a Free Press FREE

SELDOM does Freedom of the Press disappear in one annihilating blow.

In countries where the Press has been chained, there was first a period when it failed to realize and resist the beginnings of its end — the first encroachments on its free- dom. There were powerful interests which wanted certain facts "kept out of the news- papers." There was pressure here and press- ure there to have the truth withheld.

Before the Press of any nation succumbs to tyranny, there always has been a period of failure to speak out.

Here in America there is only the limita- tion of national security — the necessity to protect and preserve confidential military and scientific information — which can be accept- ed by a Press that is determined to stay free.

America's newspapers have made, and will continue to make, a conscientious effort to protect that security — at the same time keep- ing the people informed as fully as possible on all matters concerning their welfare. So long as American newspapers pursue that policy fearlessly, our Press, our people and our country shall remain free of tyranny.

Successful Reports On Gulf Fishing

AUSTIN — Despite high winds harassing fishermen on the Gulf coast, some excellent catches of trout, redfish and sheepshead are being made, according to reports from the Game and Fish Commission marine laboratory at Rockport.

The largest population of small trout, 12 to 16 inches long, since 1951, has been reported in Lower Laguna Madre. Fishermen in West Bay, around Galveston have reported tremendous catches during the past week. The same is true up and down the coastline, where fishermen have been able to take good strings of trout.

Pier and jetty fishermen have been the most uncessful, because they can fish at night with less wind.

Right now, shrimp for bait along the coast are reported as plentiful. However, lure fishermen are having very good luck.

REPORTABLE DISEASES

Reportable diseases in Milam County for the week ending April 29 according to Dr. T. E. Crump, acting director of the Milam County Health Department were 28 strep throat, 12 flu, one measles and one gonorrhea.
